FIBRAMETIS -QKTH2 Architectural Mesh Drapery

FIBRAMETIS - QKTH2 Architectural Mesh Drapery is a sophisticated woven metal mesh designed for elegant interior design. Crafted from stainless steel, brass, or copper, it blends the softness of fabric with the strength of metal. Ideal for modern spaces, QKTH2 brings texture, depth, and contemporary style to both residential and commercial interiors.

Fibrametis -QKTH2 Architectural Mesh Drapery

The Fibrametis - QKTH2 Architectural Mesh Drapery is a high-end interior material that combines metallic durability with fabric-like flexibility. Woven from premium metals such as stainless steel, brass, or copper, it is lightweight yet strong—perfect for creating refined wall panels, customized window treatments, and laminated glass features. Its woven design adds a rich texture and visual interest to any space, offering both functional resilience and artistic elegance. Available in a range of styles and metallic finishes, QKTH2 is fully customizable with bespoke logos, patterns, or graphics, giving designers the freedom to align it with brand identity or specific design themes. Whether used in residential or commercial projects, this decorative mesh delivers a modern, polished look while supporting long-term durability and creative expression.
